

Don't let labor television disappear

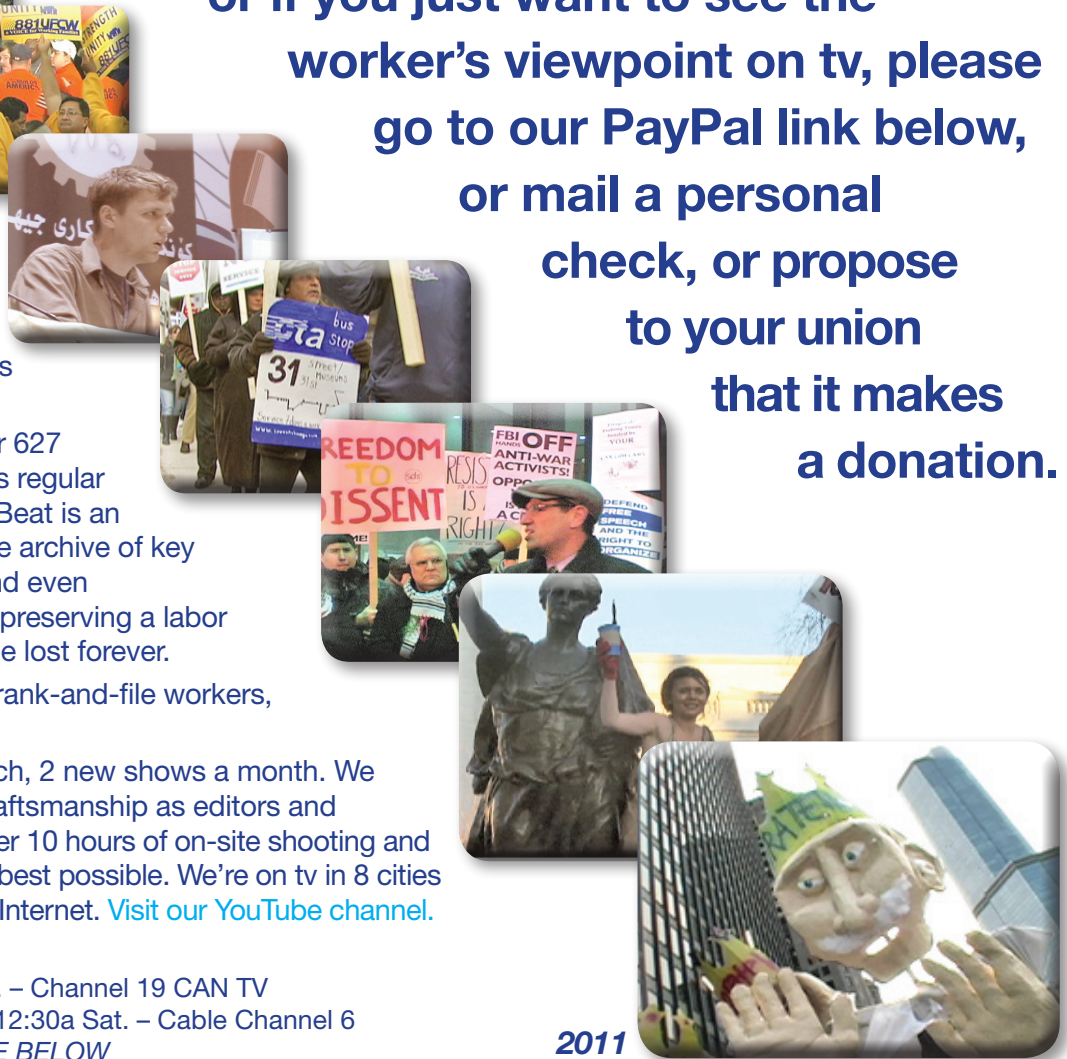

1986

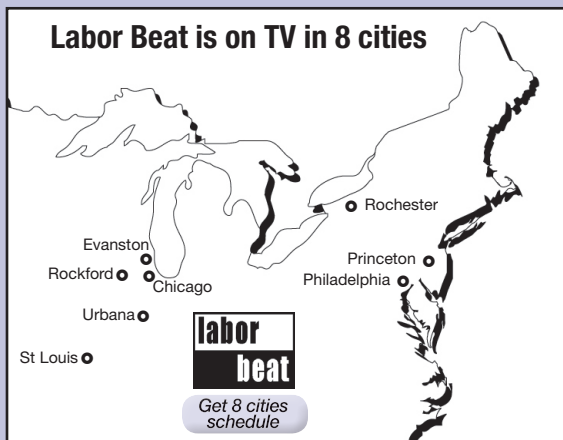

We need your help to keep Labor Beat going. If you've seen our show, if we have supported your struggle on our show, or if you just want to see the worker's viewpoint on tv, please go to our PayPal link below, or mail a personal check, or propose to your union that it makes a donation.

- Labor Beat is not funded by any grants, or exclusively by any union. It is not an organ of any other organization. Our 'patron' has always been workers and the general labor movement. Selling our DVDs and asking for donations is how we survive.
- Labor Beat has produced over 627 shows since the late 80s for its regular Chicago-based series. Labor Beat is an extraordinary and irreplaceable archive of key events in Midwest, national and even international labor news, thus preserving a labor history that would otherwise be lost forever.
- Labor Beat co-producers are rank-and-file workers, employed and unemployed.
- Our shows are 30-minutes each, 2 new shows a month. We work hard at improving our craftsmanship as editors and videographers. Shows take over 10 hours of on-site shooting and editing time to make them the best possible. We're on tv in 8 cities as a series and, of course, the Internet.
